LONDON, DECEMBER 1.

Yesterday his Majesty went in state to the House of Lords, and after the House of Commons had presented their Speaker, of whom his Majesty approved, his Majesty made the following most gracious SPEECH from the Throne:

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IT gives me much concern that I am obliged at the opening of this Parliament, to inform you, that a most daring spirit of resistance and disobedience to the laws, still unhappily prevails in the province of Massachusetts-Bay, and has in divers parts of it broke forth in fresh violences of a very criminal nature.

These proceedings have been countenanced and encouraged in other of my colonies, and unwarrantable attempts have been made to obstruct the commerce of this kingdom by unlawful combinations. I have taken such measures, and given such orders, as I judge is most proper and effectual for carrying into execution the Laws, which were passed in the last session of the late Parliament, for the protection and security of the commerce of my subjects, and for the restoring and preserving peace, order and good government in the province of the Massachusetts-Bay, and you may depend upon my firm and stedfast resolution to withstand every attempt to weaken or impair the supreme authority of this legislature, over all the dominions of my crown, the maintenance of which I consider as essential to the dignity, the safety, and welfare of the British empire, assuring myself that while I act upon these principles, I shall never fail to receive your assistance and support.

I have the greatest satisfaction in being able to inform you, that a treaty of peace is concluded between Russia and the Porte. By this happy event the troubles which have so long prevailed in one part of Europe are composed, and a general tranquillity rendered complete.

It shall be my constant aim and endeavour, to prevent a breaking out of such disturbances, and I cannot but flatter myself I shall succeed, as I continue to receive the strongest assurances from other powers of their being equally disposed to preserve the peace.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I HAVE ordered the proper estimates for the service of the ensuing year, to be laid before you, and I doubt not, but that in this House of Commons, I shall meet with the same affectionate confidence, and the same proofs of zeal and attachment to my person and government, which I have always during the course of my reign, received from my faithful Commons.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

LET me particularly recommend to you at this time, to proceed with temper in your deliberations, and with unanimity in your resolutions.

Let my people in every part of my dominions be taught by your example to have a due reverence for the laws, and a just sense of the blessings of our excellent constitution. They may be assured that on my part I have nothing so much at heart as the real prosperity and lasting happiness of all my subjects.

SOUTH-CAROLINA.

The SPEECH of His Honour WILLIAM BULL, Esquire, Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over His Majesty's said Province, to the General Assembly, met at Charles-Town, on Tuesday, January 24th, 1775.

Honourable Gentlemen of His Majesty's Council, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

I HAVE nothing in Command from the King to lay before you, or relative to the late Apprehensions of a War with the Creek Indians, but that they have made Satisfaction for the Outrages committed in Georgia last Winter; and that Peace, Trade and Confidence, are re-established with them. As this is the usual Season of the Year for dispatching the Public Business in General Assembly, I recommend to you to revive and continue such of our Laws as are expired or near expiring, which have been found necessary and beneficial in preserving the good Order and Tranquility, and promoting the Prosperity of the Province. During the Course of your Sitting, I shall not fail to propose any Matters, as Occasion may require, which appear to me to merit your Attention.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

THE Public Faith of this Province is so fundamentally engaged to maintain several Branches of our Establishments, at present supported out of the Produce of the General Duty Fund, that I cannot admit of the least Doubt with myself of your paying the earliest and strictest Attention to prevent a Risque of any Failure therein. I shall order the Joint-Public-Treasurers to lay before you the Accounts of the Public Debts, incurred during the last Year, and desire you to make effectual Provision for the same.

Honourable Gentlemen of His Majesty's Council, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Assembly,

A WARM Sense of my Duty to the King, and Zeal for the Service of this His Majesty's Province, ever guide and animate my Actions. Happy shall I be, under such auspicious Direction, to concur with you in any Measure, which, after mature Deliberation, shall be thought necessary to promote the Welfare of this Country.

Jan. 24, 1775. WILLIAM BULL.

To the Honourable WILLIAM BULL, Esq; Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over His Majesty's said Province.

The Humble ADDRESS of the UPPER HOUSE of ASSEMBLY.

May it please your Honour,

WE, his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Upper House of Assembly, beg Leave to return Thanks to your Honour, for your Speech delivered Yesterday to both Houses of Assembly.

Fully convinced of what Importance it is to this Country, to maintain a good Correspondence with the neighbouring Indians, we most heartily rejoice that the Satisfaction made by the Creek Nation, for the Outrages by them committed in Georgia, has re-established Peace, Trade and Confidence with that People, and happily put an End to all Apprehensions of a War with them.

The Prosperity of the Province, and the Preservation of Tranquility and good Order, are Objects of the highest Importance and most general Concern. Your Honour may rest assured, that Points, so essential to the public Happiness, cannot fail to exercise all our Diligence and Zeal, and that nothing shall be wanting on our Parts, to revive and continue such Temporary Laws, as from Experience have been found beneficial or necessary for the important Purposes to which they relate.

We are sensible, as we are, that from long Experience in Government, your Honour has acquired a thorough Knowledge of the true Interests of this Country, we beg Leave to assure you, that such Matters as you think proper, in the Course of the Session, to propose to us, shall be treated with every possible Mark of Attention and Respect.

Actuated by the same Principles of Loyalty and Duty to our Most Gracious Sovereign that animate your Honour, and inspired with the like Zeal for the Welfare of this his Province, we shall be ready upon all Occasions, most heartily to concur with you in every Measure which may tend to the Honour of the King, and to advance the Interest and Happiness of his Subjects in this Province.

By Order of the House,
THOMAS SKOTTOWE,
In the Upper House of Assembly, the 25th Jan. 1775.

The Lieutenant-Governor's ANSWER.

Honourable Gentlemen,

I GIVE you my hearty Thanks for this Address. The Readiness you are pleased to express of paying Attention to the Matters I already have or hereafter may recommend to you, of giving your Concurrence to any Measures that may tend to the Honour of the King, and advance the Interest and Happiness of this Province, becomes loyal Subjects and good Citizens, and is very acceptable to me.

Jan. 26th, 1775. WILLIAM BULL.

To the Honourable WILLIAM BULL, Esquire, Lieutenant-Governor, and Commander in Chief, in and over this His Majesty's Colony of South-Carolina.

The Humble ADDRESS of the COMMONS HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY of the said Province.

May it please your Honour,

WE, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons House of Assembly, return your Honour our Thanks for your Speech, delivered in General Assembly, on Tuesday last.

We are unable to express our Surprize and Concern at your Honour's informing us that, you have nothing in Command from the King to lay before us, especially as our Agent had, long ago, acquainted our Speaker that, the Additional Instruction, which has so often been complained of and remonstrated against, had been withheld in the Instructions made out to the new-appointed Governors—This cruel Neglect, as well of your Honour, as of this Colony, we cannot but consider as an Aggravation of the many oppressive Acts of the present Ministry; indeed it leaves little Room to hope, that our Deliberations will be of much Advantage to the Colony, as all the former Obstructions to Public Business, seem to remain in full Force.

We are glad to hear that Peace is restored between the Colony of Georgia and the Creek Indians, and hope that, it is established on such just and equitable Terms, as can alone ensure its Continuance.

We advise your Honour, That we are met with the most sincere and hearty Disposition to promote the Public Good; That we will take into immediate Consideration, what Laws ought to be revived and continued, and shall always pay due Regard to your Honour's Recommendation.

Your Honour may depend, That the Representatives of the People are, as they always have been, disposed to make the necessary Provision for Payment of the Debts, and Support of the Public Credit; and that they will adopt such Measures for those good Purposes, as appear to them most effectual, and most consistent with the Interest of the Colony.

While Duty to the King, and Zeal for the Service of this Colony, guide and animate your Honour's Actions, the utmost Assistance and Support of the House will be due, and shall never be wanting to your Honour.

By Order of the House,
RAWLINS LOWNDES, Speaker.
In the Commons House of Assembly, the 26th January, 1775.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen,

I RETURN you my Thanks for this Address, which assures me that you are come together with sincere and hearty Dispositions to promote the Public Good, which, I hope, by your prudent Conduct, will be happily attained.

It is my Duty to conform, with Punctuality to the King's Instructions; and I confide in His Majesty's Wisdom, that when He shall be pleased to have any Variation made in those with which I am at present intrusted, his Royal Pleasure will be transmitted to me, by his Ministers, in the most proper Time and Manner.

January 26, 1775. WILLIAM BULL.

SAVANNAH, (in Georgia) January 18.

THIS day the General Assembly of this province met here, when his Excellency Sir JAMES WRIGHT, Baronet, Governor in chief, &c. was pleased to deliver the following SPEECH to both Houses, viz.

"Honourable Gentlemen,

"Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Commons House of Assembly,

"This being the first opportunity that has offered in General Assembly, I must not omit acquainting you, that in consequence of the petition of both Houses, his Majesty was graciously pleased to direct that if this province should be engaged in an actual Indian war, we should have every proper succour and protection; and I was ordered to apply to the Commander in chief of his Majesty's forces in America for that purpose, who had received directions thereupon.

"The alarming situation of American affairs at this juncture, makes it highly necessary for me to say something to you on the subject, and it is with the utmost concern that I see, by every account, all the colonies to the northward of us as far as Nova-Scotia, in a general ferment, and some of them in such a state as makes me shudder when I think of the consequences which it is most probable will soon befal them. The unhappy disputes with the mother country are now become of the most serious nature, and I am much afraid the very extraordinary and violent measures adopted and pursued, will not only prevent a reconciliation, but may involve all America in the most dreadful calamities.

"Gentlemen, I think myself very happy in having it in my power to say, that this province is hitherto clear, and I much hope by your prudent conduct will remain so. Be not led away by the voices and opinions of men of over-heated ideas; consider coolly and sensibly of the terrible consequnces which may attend adopting resolutions and measures expressly contrary to law and hostile to to the mother country, especially at so late a season when we may almost daily expect to hear the determination of Great- Britain on the matters in dispute, and therefore I conceive can answer no purpose but that of throwing the province into confusion, and I tremble at the apprehension of what may be the resolution and declaration of the new Parliament relative to the conduct of the people in some parts of America.

"You may be advocates for liberty, so am I, but in a constitutional and legal way; you gentlemen, are legislators, and let me intreat you to take care how you give a sanction to trample upon law and government, and be assured it is an indisputable truth, that where there is no law, there can be no liberty: It is the due course of and support of government which only can ensure to the enjoyment of your lives, your liberty and your estates, and do not catch at the shadow and lose the substance; I exhort you not to suffer yourselves to be drawn to involve this province in the distresses of those who have offended; we are in a very different situation, on a very different footing from the other colonies; do not consider me as speaking to you merely as the King's Governor of this province; as such gentlemen, it is certainly my duty to support his Majesty's just right and authority, and to preserve peace and good order within my government, and to contribute as much as possible towards the prosperity and happiness of the province and people; believe me when I tell you, I am at this time actuated by further motives than show only of discharging my duty as the King's Governor; I have lived amongst and presided over you upwards of fourteen years, and have other feelings; I have a real and affectionate regard for the people, and it grieves me to think that a province which I have been so long in, and which I have seen nurtured by the Crown at a vast expence to the mother country, and grow up from mere infancy, from next to nothing, to a considerable degree of maturity and opulence, should by the imprudence and rashness of some inconsiderate people be plunged into a state of distress and ruin: We have been most happy in, I hope, avoiding Scylla, and let me in the strongest terms conjure you to steer clear of Charybdis.

"It is a most melancholy and disagreeable subject, and therefore I shall avoid making any observations on the resolutions adopted by the other colonies, but hope that through your prudence and regard for the welfare and happiness of the province, of yourselves, and of your posterity, none will be entered into here; the strongest reasons operate against it, and as they must occur to every considerate person, I shall not mention any.

"Gentlemen of the Assembly,

"The very dangerous and critical situation of our affairs with the Creek Indians last spring, prevented your going on the necessary business of the province at that time; I therefore hope and depend that, agreeable to your address to me of the 12th of March, 1774, you will now take the several matters formerly recommended to you into consideration, and proceed thereupon with that serious attention they require, and to which I shall only add, that in order to preserve and continue to us, peace and quietness with the Indians, it seems absolutely necessary that a law should be framed to regulate some matters relative to the Indian trade, and transactions in the Indian country, to prevent encroachments and trespasses on the lands and hunting grounds of the Indians, and other irregularities and abuses being committed by hunters and other disorderly people, both within and without the settlements; and therefore most earnestly recommend a revisal of a bill relative to Indian affairs, which was before the House of Assembly in the year 1769, in which I am persuaded you will find some clauses that may be most useful and salutary to the province.

"I have ordered the Treasurer to lay before you, and will very soon send you an estimate of the usual and necessary supplies since the last tax.

JAMES WRIGHT."

In the UPPER-HOUSE of ASSEMBLY, Jan. 18, 1775.

A MESSAGE to the Commons House of Assembly,

"Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen,

"THIS House having taken into serious consideration those matters mentioned by his Excellency in his Speech to both Houses, respecting the present alarming state of the unhappy disputes between Great Britain and the Colonies, and conceiving the subject to be of the highest importance to the welfare and safety of both, is therefore desirous of having a Free Conference with your House thereon, in hopes of being able to fix on such a plan of conduct as, may reasonably be expected, will prove conducive to the obtaining the great point, which every true friend to America hath, or ought to have, only in view, to wit, that of securing to its inhabitants, on a solid, and permanent footing, all the rights and privileges to which, as British subjects, they are entitled, on the principles of the constitution.

"For, however warmly this House may and doth condemn the violent and ill judged measures pursued by some of the other provinces, which they conceive, have an evident tendency to widen the breach between Great-Britain and the Colonies, and may involve all America in a scene of the utmost distress and misery; yet it is the sincere wish of this House, as far as in their power, to see every obstacle removed which may interrupt a cordial and lasting union with the Mother Country, or obstruct or prevent his Majesty's American subjects from enjoying all the constitutional rights of British Subjects, and will therefore cheerfully join in pursuing such measures as will at once testify loyalty to our Most Gracious Sovereign, a firm attachment to the British constitution, and a warm and proper regard to the rights and liberties of America."

To his Excellency Sir JAMES WRIGHT, Baronet, Captain-General, Governor, and Commander in Chief, in and over his Majesty's province of Georgia, Chancellor and Vice Admiral of the same.

The humble ADDRESS of the Upper House of Assembly.

May it please your Excellency,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Council of Georgia, in General Assembly met, beg leave to return your Excellency our most cordial thanks for the truly excellent speech to both Houses of Assembly at the opening of this session.

We receive with pleasure and gratitude the information you have been pleased to give us of the favourable reception the petitions from both Houses met with from our most gracious Sovereign, and that his Majesty had been pleased to order troops for our protection, in case we had been unhappily engaged in an Indian war.

After having had the experience of your Excellency's prudent and equitable administration for upwards of fourteen years, we can have no doubt of your real and friendly concern for the true interests of this province. The language of your Excellency's speech, upon a subject of the highest importance to the people of Georgia, is so truly paternal, that every unprejudiced Person must be convinced of its being dictated by a heart warm with love and affection for the people over whom you preside; and we hope it will meet with that return of gratitude and attention which the affectionate spirit it breather, and the importance of the subject merits.

It is with the deepest concern we see the alarming lengths to which the present unhappy disputes between the Mother Country and the Colonies are carried—lengths that threaten a dissolution of all good order and government, and of that union on which the happiness and prosperity of both countries ultimately depend.

But, whilst we lament these unhappy divisions, and disapprove of all violent and intemperate measures, and at the same time declare it to be our pride and glory to be constitutionally connected with Great-Britain by the closest and most endearing ties, and that we dread nothing more than a dissolution of those ties, yet, anxious for the present welfare of our country, and the interests of our posterity, our ardent wish is, that his Majesty's American subjects may enjoy all the rights and privileges of British subjects, as fully and effectually, in all respects, as the inhabitants of Great Britain do: And to that end, it now appears highly necessary, that the constitutional rights of his American subjects may be clearly defined, and firmly established, that so they may hold those inestimable blessings on such a footing as will unite the Mother Country and her Colonies by a reciprocation of benefits, and on terms consistent with the spirit of the constitution, and the honour, dignity, and safety of the whole empire. And we wish and hope to see a matter of such importance taken up in a constitutional way by both Houses of Assembly, not in the least doubting but that, if such prudent and temperate measures are adopted by the legislatures of the other provinces, we shall see them crowned with success which may remove the unhappy divisions now subsisting, and bind us to our Mother Country by the ties of interest, love, and gratitude, and establish the prosperity, power, and grandeur of the British empire on foundations which may last till time shall be no more. Nor can we doubt of success, when we reflect that we are blessed with a King who glories in being the equal father of all his people, and therefore can and do submit our cause with full confidence to his royal wisdom and parental goodness: Neither will we suppose that a British Parliament, that great and august body, who have so often generously asserted and defended the liberties of other nations, will disregard the equitable claims of their fellow subjects.

We entirely agree with your Excellency in opinion, that where there is no law there can be no true liberty, and that it is the due and regular course of law, and support of government, which can alone insure us and our posterity the enjoyment of our lives, liberty, and property.

We will chearfully concur in the several matters recommended by your Excellency, and give them that serious attention which the utility of them requires.

Upper House of Assembly, 20th January, 1775. } By order of the House,

N. JONES.

His Excellency's ANSWER.

Honourable Gentlemen.

THE loyalty and affection expressed towards his Majesty in this address, gives me the greatest satisfaction; as it likewise does to see that your sentiments on the very important matters mentioned, in many respects coincide with my own; and happy would it have been for America, had the several Legislatures proceeded in the manner you propose.

I return you my best thanks, Gentlemen, for your kind opinion of my regard for, and wishes to serve this Province. 20th of January, 1775.

JAMES WRIGHT.

The ADDRESS of the Commons House of Assembly.

May it please your Excellency,

WE his Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Georgia, in General Assembly met, return your Excellency our thanks for your speech to both Houses on the opening of this session. We are greatly obliged to his Majesty for his gracious intentions, but allow us, Sir, to observe, that we apprehended the province was actually involved in a war when we submitted our petition for assistance, and, whilst we confess our real obligations to your Excellency for your conduct, assiduity and perseverance, and render you our warmest acknowledgements for putting a happy end to that war? we cannot but with horror reflect on the dreadful crisis to which this province must have been reduced, had we experienced no other resource, than those dilatory succours which administration meant conditionally to afford us.

We cannot be less affected by, and concerned for the present alarming situation of our affairs between Great-Britain and America, than your Excellency; we must be equally insensible not to feel our numerous grievances, and not to wish them redressed. It is that alone which every good American contends for; it is the enjoyment of our constitutional rights and liberties that softens every care of life, and renders existence itself supportable. At the same time, in all our proceedings, we shall studiously avoid every measure, that shall not appear to us at once, strictly consonant with our duty to his Majesty and the interest, liberty, and welfare of our constituents. We shall on all occasions exert ourselves to accomplish every assurance we have already made, or may make to your Excellency, and will not fail to take into consideration the bill which you are pleased to point out and recommend.

When the public accounts and estimate are laid before us, we will give them proper attention.

Commons House of Assembly, 20th of January, 1775. } By Order of the House,

WILLIAM YOUNG, Speaker.

His Excellency's ANSWER.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the Commons House of Assembly.

I AM sorry that I must beg leave to differ with you in opinion, with respect to the state we were in when your petition to his Majesty was given to me, and which I immediately transmitted. It is true [illegible] had been murdered by the same Indians that could by no means be called being a war with that nation. They were by a small party, only, of the Creek concurrence or even the privity of the nation, and disowned by them as soon as they knew of it; and I apprehend something further was necessary, before we could be said to be involved or engaged in an actual war with the Indians; and every account I received from them after that time was favourable, and shewed rather a pacific than an hostile disposition; and which accounts I always transmitted to his Majesty's Secretary of State, as it was my duty to do.

It gives me great pleasure to observe my conduct approved of by the representatives of the people, and for which I thank you. I have every inducement to serve the province, and to promote the welfare and happiness of the people, and which I shall continue to do to the utmost of my power; and, on the other hand, I cannot doubt but you will also approve my endeavours to discharge my duty to the Crown with honour and integrity: and let me assure you, Gentlemen, that no man can more ardently wish his Majesty's American subjects the full and perfect enjoyment of their constitutional rights and liberties than I do.

JAMES WRIGHT.

An ADDRESS to the Fair Sex.

LADIES, if your Daughters incline to write,
And in a free Correſpondence they delight,
At Mrs. DAVIS's, their Comp'ny I beſeech,
It's in St. MICHAEL'S-ALLEY where I teach;
From Nine to Eleven every Morn,
Their pliable Minds I'll ſtrive to adorn,
By Advice adapted t'their tender Years,
Both mild and pleaſing to diſpel their Fears:
Thus, raiſe a noble Ardour in their Breaſt
To be learn'd; and of a gen'rous Soul poſſeſt,
Which internal Accompliſhments inſpire,
Exalt'd Ideas! ſoaring higher! and higher!
Such noble Conceptions in their Minds,
Spurn Vice! Virtue free Admiſſion finds.
The Frowns of Fortune can't ſuch long diſtreſs,
They'll always find ſome Comfort in their Breaſt.
So that a Tutor's moſt material Part,
Is to make good Impreſſions on the Heart
Of their Pupils; notions they then imbibe
Seldom are eras'd, or ever laid aſide.
Critic, hark! I'm no Poet! be at Peace,
I have not wrote to you, it's to your Niece;
It's the Ladies' Approbation I implore,
In obtaining that I deſire no more.
